Sunday Movies Favored by Bethel Voters Monday

Bethel's annual meeting was held Monday with the customary lack of general discussion and argument. With no contests appearing on the printed ballot, only 83 ballots were cast during the morning when the polls were open, and all town officers were re-elected. F. E. Russell was again chosen for a three year term on the school committee, this making his second re-election to this office.

The amount of money raised during the afternoon session followed the advice of the budget committee with the exception of the matter of repairing the road from the Riverside Cemetery to the Valentine place on the Northwest Bethel road. It was stated that this work might be made a part of the town's WPA project so it was voted to pass over the article. Another article passed over was that relating to the proposed sewer from Everett Merrill's house on the Grover Hill road to Mill Brook.

Without discussion it was voted to permit the exhibition of motion pictures on Sunday in town. With the year and may vote this result appeared to be close, but when those favoring the measure came to their feet they far outnumbered those against the innovation.

Most of the remarks from the floor were questions by Mrs. John Irvine, a newcomer at East Bethel, who sought information several times regarding the town's practices. There was some discussion on the question of deducting from the pay of town employees to apply on their over due taxes, but no action was taken. It was voted to have the Moderator appoint a budget committee of 12, to be made up of citizens not holding town office.

Mr. Bartlett, who served the town well as Tax Collector and was re-elected, made an attempt to increase his pay. He named several towns in the county which pay 1½ cents on the dollar for collection, and he felt that Bethel's .008 rate was much too low. However, on motion of E. E. Bennett, the old rate was fixed for another year.

Officers elected were:

Moderator—William S. Hastings
Selectmen—Ernest F. Bisbee,
John H. Howe, Carroll E. Abbott
Clerk—Alice J. Brooks
Treasurer—John M. Harrington
Tax Collector—Walter E. Bartlett
Road Commissioner—E. P. Brown
School Committee—F. E. Russell

MISS DAVIS ON DEAN'S LIST, WESTBROOK JUNIOR COLLEGE

Miss Kathryn Davis, a freshman at Westbrook Junior College, Portland, has been named on the Dean's honor list, attaining an average of 3.5 to 3.8. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davis of Bethel and graduated from Gould Academy last June.

Miss Davis is also prominent at school as Secretary of the Freshman class, a member of the glee club, librarian of Contemporary Affairs committee, and a member of the basketball squad.

DR. ARM TO SPEAK AT LOCKE MILLS SUNDAY

Dr. Arm of Farmington, the health officer for this district, will speak at Locke Mills Church this Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Parents and teachers of surrounding towns are invited to attend. Bring any written question for the forum which will follow the talk. The subject will be "Prevention of Epidemics of Measles, Mumps, etc. in our Towns." Bethel and Bryant Pond Parent-Teacher Associations are cordially invited.

1148 FARM BUREAU MEMBERS IN OXFORD COUNTY

Oxford County has 1148 of the 13,903 farm bureau members in Maine, according to Richard C. Dolloff, county agent leader in the Maine Extension Service.

Membership in this county includes 495 men and 653 women.

Seven counties had 1000 members or more as of January 31, Dolloff said. Farm bureaus in nine counties had equalled or exceeded their membership on the corresponding date a year earlier.

Membership in Androscoggin, Sagadahoc, Knox-Lincoln, and York is the largest in the history of these county farm bureaus.

The farm bureau organization in Maine exists to forward extension economics, with adults and boys teaching in agriculture and home and girls. It cooperates with the Extension Service, University of Maine, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

MRS. BERTHA L. BROOKS

Mrs. Bertha L. Brooks, wife of Fordyce B. Brooks of Errol, died at the Clinic Hospital, Berlin, Wednesday. She had been a patient there since Nov. 31 when she had both legs fractured when hit by an auto at Errol. She was born in Bethel, May 17, 1878, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe R. Cross.

She is survived by her husband; two sons, Lester and Howard; three daughters, Una, Hilda and Marlon, all of Errol; three sisters, Mrs. True Eames of Bethel, Mrs. Hollis Coolidge and Mrs. Mary Staples, both of Gorham, N. H., and a brother, Charles Cross of Milan, N. H.

At the meeting of Sunset Rebekah Lodge Monday evening plans were made for the district meeting to be held here May 1 and the following committee on arrangements was appointed: Misses Ida Packard, Beatrice Brown and Maxine Clough.

At the meeting of Mt. Abram Lodge, I. O. O. F., last Friday evening the third degree was given four candidates by the degree staff of Norway Lodge. An oyster stew supper was served before the meeting. Seventy-five members were present.

WENTZELL ON CHEMISTRY EXHIBIT COMMITTEE, BATES

It was announced recently that Erland Wentzell, who graduated from Gould Academy in 1937, would serve on the committee in charge of the chemistry exhibit, which will be a part of the fifteenth biennial Science Exhibit of Bates College, to be held March 13 and 14.

This exhibit will cover all the branches of science found on campus. Included in the chemistry program will be an exhibit of plastics, synthetic textiles, synthetic rubber products, and important therapeutical drugs.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Sanborn and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamlin were in Berlin Sunday, guests of Frank Hamlin and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cale.

Miss Ida Lee Clough, Miss Barbara Coolidge, Mrs. Lillias Coolidge, Mrs. Hattie Hutchinson, and Earl Hutchinson were in Andover Sunday to the ski carnival.

Those who attended Pomona at West Paris Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. F. I. French, Fred Clark, Mrs. Una Stearns, Mrs. Edna Smith, Mrs. Gertrude Bartlett, and Miss Mildred Bartlett.

A surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Sadie Robertson Sunday evening in honor of her son Henry, who left Monday to enter the Army for three years. He received gifts. Fourteen friends were present. Those besides the family were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bean, Mrs. Ainslee Morgan, Rudy Belanger, and the Misses Margaret Callant, Luella Gallant, Pauline Bean and Francene Warren.

The Girl Scout meeting was held at the Legion Rooms Friday at 4 p. m., with Mrs. O'Brien in charge. Ruth Garber led the meeting. There were 23 present. Perfect attendance. Treasurer reported $16.00. Scribe read the minutes of the last meeting. Inspection was taken. The Virginia Reel was the game enjoyed. Goodnight circle and home at 5 p. m. Scribe, Patsy O'Brien.

The regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held at the Legion Rooms Tuesday evening, with Principal Elwood F. Ireland as guest speaker. Committees for the year were named: Finance, John Harrington, H. I. Bean, Wm. C. Chapman; Membership, Gerard Williams, A. R. Cutler, Arthur Fogg; Program, Robt. Watson, E. A. Van; Advertising, Perley Flint, P. R. Burns. The ticket committee for the next meeting is John Harrington and Elmer Bennett.

Twenty-four were present at the meeting of Purty's Chapter, O. E. S. Wednesday evening which was preceded by a pot luck supper. There was balloting at the meeting and plans were made for the next meeting when the degree will be conferred. At that meeting, on April 2, there will be a pot luck supper in charge of Miss Alice Bartlett and Mrs. Eva Brown. The Wagon and Meads Club will meet with Mrs. Emma Young on March 14.

A 60 party was given Mrs. Wallace Coolidge at her home in honor of her birthday Friday evening. High score was won by Mrs. Coolidge and Harry Hutchinson, consolation by Hattie Hutchinson, and Mrs. Swan. Refreshments were served.

Indictments were returned late this Thursday afternoon against two men charged with kidnapping Harold Fuller of Upton Monday night, and it is said that circulars describing the men have been widely distributed among the proper authorities. The investigation leading to these indictments was conducted by State Officer John Maguire or Bethel, who presented his evidence to the grand jury.

Two men entered Fuller's store at Upton Monday evening desiring Upton Monday evening, desiring transportation to Bethel. Finally they prevailed upon Mr. Fuller to take them after they had paid him $4.00. In Grafton they ordered him to stop at gun point, and after trussing him up, put him in the back of the car. They then drove to Norway, and started back toward Berlin. Above West Bethel they drove in the Bog road to the unoccupied buildings of Harlan Kimball where they took Fuller out and tied him to a stanchion in the barn. About three o'clock Tuesday morning Fuller appeared at the home of Laurence Lord about two miles from the Kimball place, having gnawed the ropes loose. Officer Maguire was notified at once and tracked the car to the State line.

Owing to the mild weather on that night Mr. Fuller suffered no ill effects from the cold.

It was reported Wednesday that the car had been found abandoned at Berlin.

Fourteen Boy Scouts and three officials attended their meeting on Monday evening. The meeting was led by Harold Conner. Frederick Kneeland and Eugene Van Den Kerkhoven Jr. passed the compass test. Plans were made for a contest and the following committee chosen to draw up the rules: Robert Greenleaf, Glendon McAllister, Earl Hutchinson and Eugene Van.

The Bethel Band held a card party Tuesday in the I. O. O. F. There were seven tables in play. High score was won by Viola Lord and Omer Drummond and consolation went to Mrs. Bert Brown and Ernest Luxton.

The S. of U. V. and Auxiliary will meet at I. O. O. F. Hall Thursday evening, March 13, for a pot luck supper and meeting.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

In Arizona a person predicting on the weather is either a tender-foot, or is slightly touched, as the natives say, out there. But you go down there to our nation's capital where the predicting is even tougher and where the wind changes every half hour you find everybody guessing. Our 2-column columnists wade in and predict exactly what is gonna happen next and don't bat an eye.

No man, black, white or bronzo can tell what will happen next down there. Anybody trying to do so, the safest place for him is to be locked up.

Today the super-latest idea is what to do now, when defense work says: Like a mountain goat, we go from crag to crag and each crag is more slippery.

How any nation can keep on experimenting year in and year out and come home in a barrel each time is something for the historians to ponder.

Instead of there being 7 wonders of the world, we make 8 right.

Yours with the low down
JO SERRA

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

What Associated Press staff writer Richard L. Turner called "a new and, to some a startling phase in the argument for helping Great Britain," recently appeared while the Senate was debating the lease-lend bill. This new phase was the admission that the proposed policy involves the risk of war.

The opponents of the lease-lend measure have long used that as their prime weapon. They have declared that once the bill becomes law it will be only a matter of months before we are active participants in the war against the Axis. At the beginning, however, the bill's supporters generally pooch-pooched that supposition. They said that the new measure could not carry us any closer to war. Now their tone has undergone significant change.

For example, Senator Barkley, the majority leader, recently said that "the course we chart is not without risk." Going a long step farther, Senator Pepper, one of the most aggressive backers of all out aid to Britain, said, "If the action we propose will not save England we will say it anyway." Frankfort of all was Senator Bailey, another leader of Democratic forces, who said: "I am hoping that intervention may not mean war, but I am ready if intervention does mean war."

The President himself said that there were hazards in any course that this country might pursue in its foreign policy. It was obvious that the possibility of war was in his mind when, in answer to a question at a press conference he said that even if we were to engage in naval hostilities with Japan there would be no let-up in our sending supplies to England. The Administration stand is that, risky as the lease-lend bill policy may be it contains the greatest assurance for American security with the least risk of war.

If we went to war, it is apparent that, at the beginning, our participation would involve the navy and perhaps the air force, not the army. Britain could certainly use our fighting fleet, the great British navy, which has sustained heavy losses, is spread out dangerously thin. She must command the North Sea, the Mediterranean, and a considerable part of the Far and Near East. She must convoy the merchant ships that bring her supplies from the New World and Oceania. Her fighting force in the Orient is inferior to Japan's. Britain has plenty of men in khaki today. She hasn't enough floating gun platforms. In theory, if we should go to war with Germany, Japan would at once attack us. She might attempt to seize the Philippines and the lesser Pacific Island which fly the American flag. And then what might prove one of the greatest naval wars of all time would begin.

There is still another possibility here. Britain apparently fears that Japan is about to embark on adventures of her own—toward Indo-China, the Netherlands possessions, or even Singapore, key to the East. Large numbers of the famed Australian troops have been sent to the Singapore garrison. Enough planes have also been sent, it is reported to give Britain superiority in the air in that area—the Japanese air force is not especially large, and the sons of Nippon aren't supposed to be much as pilots. At the same time, Britain would have a tough job on her hands resisting a full dress attack by the Japanese fleet. Many observers think that if Japan does make her move, we will step in that the buglers on our warships will sound Battle Stations and it won't be for practice. Some think we might also help if Japan went after the Crown colony of Hongkong, a position which is virtually indefensible from land, and can only be protected by sea power.

It should become clear before long what Hitler's spring strategy will be a drive through the Balkans, an attempt at invasion of England, a Japanese push in the East or, perhaps, a combination of all three. In the meantime, this country is not nearly so far from war as the majority of its people, judging by polls, hope.

News of our own defense program is confusing. The pessimist says that everything has bogged down, and that chaos rules. The optimists say all is going well. The truth seems to lie between. Industry is at last getting geared to defense production, a tremendous job, for which it had little experience. And some of the bugs have been ironed out in the various government defense bureaus.

Production is nothing to write home about as yet. However, some of the coolest observers think this situation will undergo real change before long, that, once the stage is all set a great flood of materials will pour forth.

Defense officials have been chary of diverting peace-time production, now it seems that we must reduce the manufacture of some ordinary goods. We can't build for war and maintain normal production at the same time. Don't be surprised if next year the custom of bringing out new model motor cars is temporarily abandoned.

So far, there has been no severe price problem, no need for strict government control. All hope that situation will continue.

GOULD ACADEMY . . .

A Girl Reserve meeting was held after school February 26 in the gymnasium. Miriam Bull gave an interesting talk on her trip to the West. The secretary read a letter received from the American Legion, and then the meeting ended after playing a couple of games.

As soon as snow is available the interclass competition that was postponed from the Winter Carnival will be held. Quite a bit of interest seems to have been shown this year in this interclass competition, probably because of the success of our Varsity Winter Sports Team.

Friday morning during assembly, graduation honors will be announced. Also awards and letters will be given for football, basketball, and winter sports. The awards will be presented by the principal assisted by the coach of the particular sport.

The date of March 27 has been set for the annual Manual Training Exhibit. Invitations will be sent out during the week. All parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to visit the school at that time. All departments will have displays of work done during the year.

Many of the members of our Science classes have shown their desire to attend the Science Exhibition of Bates College March 13. Accordingly a trip is being planned by the Science Department.

The rehearsals for the Senior Play "Dulce", a comedy in two acts by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, are now in full swing. It is hoped that this play may be presented before vacation although the final date has not yet been set.

The cast:

Dulcinea Muriel Messenger
Gordon Smith Eric Brown
William Parker Minot Clapp
C. Roger Forbes

James MacKenzie
Mrs. Forbes Muriel Hall
Angela Forbes Lillian Leighton
Schuyler Van Dyck Ted Jenks

New Envoy to Britain Is Staunch 'New Dealer'

Shares Pres. Roosevelt's Political Views; Announce 'Social Defense Work'
To Bolster Home Front.

By BAUKHAGE
National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1395 National Press
Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON. — Few American ambassadors have been chosen because of their philosophy. John Winant, just taking over his new duties as envoy to the Court of St. James, was.

Externally he is not the type to wear knee breeches and genuflect to royalty.

He is tall, Lincolnlike appearing. He is no orator. He has had no previous diplomatic experience. He is anything but the glass of fashion, although he comes from a wealthy New York family. He was once Republican governor of New Hampshire. President Roosevelt called him in to head the first social security board. Later he was director of the international labor office at Geneva.

Many persons in Washington will tell you they cannot see why this man was chosen for our most important foreign diplomatic post. Within limits it is anybody's guess. This is mine:

Mr. Roosevelt believes that America is to play the dominating role in the peace that is to come. He believes that the democracies must have as definite a program to offer the bewildered and bleeding peoples of the earth as the totalitarians. Hitler has named his. It is national socialism. Roosevelt has his—the New Deal.

"If Great Britain Wins.

If Great Britain wins the war, her chosen representatives will dictate the terms which will shape the new world. If they are to be persuaded to do the job on the American plan they must understand what that plan is. Therefore, since the man whose function it is to interpret the United States to Great Britain in the pre-war days is our ambassador, he must truly represent his President. Of course all ambassadors are supposed to be the personal representatives of their head of state but under these circumstances the President's envoy extraordinary must be a man who Mr. Roosevelt believes, believes as he believes.

That is the reason the President sent Harry Hopkins over in the fateful interlude between a Kennedy and a Winant.

John Winant will talk to the king or the prime minister or whomever is head of the peace-making government. In the language of President Roosevelt. That is not precisely the language which Joseph Kennedy spoke so understandingly to the Englishman he knew best and respected highly, the late Neville Chamberlain, the language of the conservative liberal, the man of property. Winant's language is the language of what he would probably describe "social values"—for he is the New Deal incarnate.

President Has Plan For 'Social Defense'

At a recent White House press conference the President took a lot of time to answer an open letter from an ex-marine, World War veteran. The writer said that when the last war was over he had announced that he'd cheer the boys to the next one and then enjoy a big steak and onions. But when he tried it after seeing some draftees march by, the steak didn't taste. He wanted to know what folks, too old to join the army could do for national defense. The President said he would announce a plan soon. That plan is based on a report submitted by a committee, the chairman of which is Mrs. Florence Kerr, assistant WPA commissioner here.

Later I asked Mrs. Kerr about it. This was her reply:

"There are social defense jobs to be done in every home town in America. From border to border and coast to coast communities need more services in health, welfare, education, recreation. Everywhere there are things to be done to make America a better place in which to live."

Fields of training, says Mrs. Kerr, in which millions of men, women and youth will be engaged for defense on the home front will include: Food training programs, dealing with all subjects related to food, food conservation, food handling, gardening, canning, mass feeding, vitamins and their importance, food for children, food for ill, diet, nutrition and many other topics related to food and the home front.

Applique testing, first aid and safety first: community organization, map reading, map making, drafting, community health, sanitation and hygiene: are just a few of the other fields in which more trained workers are needed.

"Co-operating with private organizations, such as Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, and other recreation groups, great numbers of women can be interested and trained in performing their home defense service through volunteer leadership of girls," Mrs. Kerr said.

War-Gas Driven Cars Increase in Finland

Recently we reported the experimental work being done by the department of agriculture laboratory in Peoria, Ill., in the manufacture of alcohol from corn residue. In Finland, where necessity has become the mother of invention, reports coming to Washington show that they are already running automobiles without gasoline. The Finns have wood-gas carburetors in their cars. Finland in normal times imports all of its petroleum. In these times it can get little or none.

According to information reaching the legation here in your capital city the Finnish ministry of supplies and transport has issued orders to the effect that automobiles all over Finland, including privately owned cars, busses and trucks, must be fitted with the wood-gas carburetors as soon as possible. The only exceptions are ambulances and the cars and trucks of the fire brigades. Every day now sees an increase of the wood-gas driven cars on the streets of Helsinki. By early November, 1,900 wood-gas carburetors were in use in Finland, as well as 4,250 charcoal-gas carburetors, another substitute for gasoline.

And this affects the farmer, too. All tractors in agricultural use are being fitted with the wood-gas carburetors. Nearly all busses are already running on wood-gas, and passengers are gratified with the absence of the noxious gas fumes usually associated with gasoline-driven busses—one of the advantages of wood gas.

New service stations have had to be set up, for the servicing now is not merely a question of supplying the fuel but also of cleaning the carburetors and emptying the ashes, which must be done under cover.

Last August, when wood-gas carburetors were introduced into Finland, the state appointed a committee to find means to finance their purchase. This committee's recommendation, to set up a guarantee company in which the state would take part, was carried out by the establishment in October of a joint stock company, Wood-Gas Generator Credits, Inc., which extends credits, up to a maximum of 70 per cent of the cost, toward the purchase of the new carburetors.

The ministry of supply and transport also appointed a technical committee to work on improvements and modifications of the carburetors. The state granted $100,000 to start this work.

Although the development of wood gas in Finland thus far has been a temporary expediency it may have a future as a fuel in the motor world. In that case, Finland, according to the Finnish experts, with her wealth of forests, would be in the first rank of motor-fuel producing countries. At all events, she would be independent as far as her own auto traffic is concerned.

However, if and when the Finns once again secure their political independence, it is to be hoped they will be part of a world where complete economic independence is not necessary—a world where there is a free flow of all the products of the earth and of industry between nations.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

A Non-Partisan Editorial Review of the Events of Each Week, Illustrated

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of this newspaper.

TONE OF WAR:
Stepped Upward

Generally speaking, the advent of March saw the war news on all fronts stepped upward to new peaks of activity, rumor and expectation of a far more bitter and decisive year than 1940.

There were more than minimal signs that Hitler was preparing to launch vital moves on at least two fronts, with possibility that he might add a third theater of war to his effort and might include Japan to take over a fourth.

Most war observers returning to this country and able to speak freely expected the invasion attempt to be dated somewhere between March 15 and May 1.

Resumption of test daylight raids over England were viewed as a certain sign that the day was not far distant.

The move in the Balkans was apparently being made, with Bulgaria scheduled as the avenue through which Nazi hordes would be given an open road to the Greek northern frontier.

Signs were less definite that this might be accompanied by a move to aid Italy in Africa, or that Hitler would make a general Mediterranean offensive part of his spring plan.

A move which sent detachments of Nazi troops into Spain was explained

IRUN, SPAIN.—German sentries are shown here "goosestepping" on their posts at the point where Spanish territory meets that of "occupied" France. Detachments of Nazi troops have been reported to have entered Spain.

By German sources as the sending of aid to Santander, badly wrecked by hurricane and fire. In many quarters, however, it was pointed out that Santander was 130 miles below the French border, and that this force might be the vanguard of a Spanish Nazi army which would move on attack or a feat against Gibraltar.

In a speech on the 21st birthday of the Nazi party Hitler told his people that a new phase of the war was coming in a short time and threatened a new and more terrible submarine campaign against British shipping. He said that new submarine crews had been trained and new U-boats would be launched in the coming stepped-up attack.

The general belief was that Hitler's master plan of strategy was unfolding itself gradually in a series of moves, some of them military, some of them diplomatic.

The plan, it was said, is based on the fact that in any invasion of Britain the Nazis would be under a disadvantage in not being able conceivably to put an equal force on the British Isles.

This being so, the main Hitler plan was said to be to strike in several different directions, i.e., Greece, Gibraltar, Africa, Malta, Suez, and in the South Pacific in order to screen the chief and central effort to land troops in Britain.

It is figured, so these authorities say, that this plan might conceivably mislead the British into moving considerable groups of war units from one territory to another, might keep the fleet busy at the wrong place, might cause the sending of many British air squadrons away from the Isles themselves.

Should this turn out to be based on fact, then it would push the date of the invasion attempt back from earlier estimates, and make the May date seem more likely than one in March or April.

With the lease-lend bill close to a final vote stage, the curtain was about to rise on an increased tempo in the war, and opposition members of congress in both house and senate were loud in their claims that 30 days would see this country added to those actively in the war.

INDUSTRY:
Priorities

First real force of the current U. S. defense economy was felt by the aluminum and machine tool producers as mandatory priorities for these materials were announced. E. R. Stettinius Jr., priorities director of the Office of Production Management of the Defense Commission issued the orders requiring that producers fill all defense orders in preference to nondefense when necessary to meet defense order delivery dates.

In his statement Stettinius said that OPM had tried to keep allocation of aluminum and machine tools on a voluntary basis but it had become "necessary and desirable" to enforce priorities so that defense industries could get the supplies they need.

FAR EAST:
Crisis for U. S.

Most vital to this nation was the crisis on the Far Eastern front, perhaps part of the major Hitler plan to weaken England by embroiling the United States and Britain in a war with Japan.

In this great diplomatic poker game the stakes were the maximum. Steps in the struggle, much of which was being carried on behind closed doors and in diplomatic chambers, became gradually news items.

The British announced that the waters off the Malay states were being mined. The Chinese reported 150,000 Japanese troops were ready to move in the general direction of Singapore.

The Dutch East Indies called all ships into neutral ports. These were just outward manifestations that Japan, under Axis pressure, was staging a show in the South Pacific, a show that had repercussions from the White House when the President gently chided newsmen and members of congress for letting General Marshall's statement of the seriousness of the situation become public property.

In this game Germany was seen as a kibitzer, but one who had Japan handling her chips on a fifty-fifty basis.

In the midst of it all came the announcement from Japan that Nippon stood ready to act as mediator to conduct negotiations for peace by all nations anywhere who were involved in war.

This move received a cold reception in Washington, Sumner Welles saying that with conditions at their present pass, this nation was looking to deeds, not words, and that Japan, instead of being a peacemaker, was stirring up trouble by her actions and troop and naval moves.

AMBASSADOR NOMURA
"Talked peace, discounted war."

That Japan was either divided in her reactions in the game of diplomatic and military bluff was evident from what was made public. Ambassador Nomura talked peace, discounted war. Japanese papers, some of them, said Nomura's task (of preserving peace) was hopeless.

Two things appeared certain in the Far East. Hitler was moving warily and under cover, and Japan was moving under pressure from her Axis partners, apparently unwillingly.

LEASE-LEND:
Fight Bitter

The closing days of the lease-lend bill fight were bitter, but the outcome was portended when final polls showed 52 senators ready to vote for it, and 20 opposed.

This was somewhat less than the majority which administration forces had predicted would pass the bill and put it into effect, but still a comfortable margin.

But the fighting in the last hours was bitter, and many senators went far out on verbal limbs in predicting what would happen when the bill becomes law.

Senator Nye boldly declared "war by April 1." Senator Reynolds provided the most startling flop away from Rooseveltian ranks and made a three-hour speech against the bill which used up 15 columns of reading space in those anti-administration papers which printed its full text.

The poll during the last days showed 46 Democrats, 5 Republicans and 1 Independent for the bill, with 8 Democrats, 11 Republicans and 1 Progressive against it.

Uncommitted were 11 Democrats and 12 Republicans, 23 votes and it would take all of them to have upset the majority of those who were willing to commit themselves.

The comments of most of those who said they would help pass the bill seemed to be along the line that they were voting for the bill with "some reluctance," but felt that it was the "only thing" to do.

But those opposed were vitriolic in their condemnation, ranging all the way from Nye, who called it "the most outrageous grab of power in American history" to Reynolds, who attempted to make his opposition sound more restrained.

SOCIAL:
Revolution

The old British caste system showed signs of crumbling under the pressure of the national emergency.

The social "upper crust" were taking their hats off to the East End type of Londoner who was proving himself a hero in the war.

Smashed beyond recognition in the September air raids, and with its population suffering the heaviest casualties of the war, the East Enders showed their mettle as Britishers, and refused to be driven from that part of the old town.

They were reported still living there, in corrugated iron shelters amongst the rubble of their former tenements, braving the air raids by day and night, and going about their usual tasks calmly.

This sort of thing is not getting them invited into the homes of Mayfair, but it was seen as bringing about a social revolution that may shatter the old caste system and bring a different way of life to the average "man-in-the-street" type of Briton.

Not only in that way, but in matters of economics a big change was seen for England. Instead of being the financial and economic power of the world, the England of the future was envisioned as a sort of "half-farm, half-factory country" shipping manufactured goods and emigrants to the Western hemisphere, and leaving the dominions increasing amount of autonomy.

Even those who feel certain that Britain will emerge the victor in the war, and as such the arbiter of the new rearrangement of world power believe that the British empire will be much decentralized.

Leading in this movement, with the apparent approval of Prime Minister Churchill was Ernest Bevin, labor minister, who recently gave out his immediate objectives as:

Nationalization of all transport, road, rail, and water; state control of the Bank of England; public ownership of all coal, gas, electric and oil resources of the country.

On top of Bevin's promises of better things for the working man and woman, Churchill has promised better educational advantages for the masses.

In England, the so-called public schools are really private, and only 2 per cent of the nation's population have the money or position to entitle them to enter. From these schools have come practically all of the army, navy officers and diplomats and high-ranking government officials.

In fact, there was a sign that there might be a revival after the war of the effort made in 1931 to abolish the house of lords, which had at that time vetoed an educational measure.

VICHY:
Question Mark

Greatest question mark of the war was what Germany wanted from the Vichy government, and how far Vichy will co-operate with what Germany demands of conquered France.

A delayed dispatch from Preston Grover states that high officials in the Vichy government see no way out for France but to comply, in general with German demands.

He quotes De Brinon, general delegate to the German authorities, as saying that Hitler told Petain:

"I do not ask active aid, but I ask you to help me shorten the war by what means lie in your power. I ask you to help in Africa, which is normally a complement of Europe, by opposing enterprises of Great Britain or General DeGaulle in the African empire."

"This I ask you to do, and for it France will find again in the new Europe the place it used to have."

To this request, in general, Marshal Petain agreed, said DeBrinon. He sums up the Vichy attitude about as follows:

France surrendered because she had no military strength. She has none now. Hopeless of being able to pull a victory out of defeat, France can only hope that Germany, in victory, will not make the same mistakes in creating a new Europe that France did, and which caused the ultimate downfall of France as a power.

He said: "At the moment, France is fallen as a great power. In order to remain a great power, France must accept the German terms, which call for collaboration in German aims."

"We must realize that whether we want to be or not, we must be Germany's neighbor. It is unthinkable that Germany and France can be going to war with each other every 20 or 30 years."

U. S. DEFENSE . . . in the news

OPM Associate Director Hillman said 37,200,000 persons are now employed in non-agricultural industry—an increase of 2,200,000 since last May, and the greatest increase in any similar period. Secretary of Labor Perkins said a survey of 11 key defense industries revealed "at least one-half of the plants covered were operating at least six days per week."

Deputy Defense Agricultural Commissioner Hutson stated that "there is no occasion for anyone to become alarmed about a possible shortage of meat" and there are record stocks of lard and other fats. National Defense Commissioner Elliott, stating that rumors of shortages, rationing and price increases for sugar are "entirely unwarranted" issued a bulletin, "Check Your Weights and Measures" to help consumers "understand the problems of insuring full and accurate weight . . . to provide effective machinery for protection in their localities."

FWA Administrator Carmody announced that the army and navy will select tenants and set rentals for defense homes occupied by their enlisted or civilian personnel and the other defense homes will be only for the use of families whose principal wage earners hold essential defense jobs. The defense worker's rental will be set according to his income and not the size of the home.

Defense Price Stabilization Commissioner Henderson has announced a price schedule for machine tools which he said was the beginning of a program "to assert the full force of the federal government, including the power of commandeering and requisitioning . . . to protect the public interest through establishment of fair price standards and to single out those who wish to grow rich on the defense program." Mr. Henderson said he found some instances where 30-year old equipment was being sold for twice its original cost.

Buy Your Drugs in a Drug Store

You don't buy your shoes in a hardware store
Or your gems at the Five and Ten;
It isn't the cobbler that fixes your teeth,
Or pulls out a snag, now and then.
You don't call a plumber to make you a suit
Or the leo man to bake you a pie;
A can of tomatoes won't do you much good
When you have a speck in your eye.
You get your stamps from the drug store man,
Break a bill for the telephone,
He delivers your messages, takes your calls
If you haven't a phone at home.
These are a few of the things he does,
Other favors he grants galore,
So why in the world, when you're buying drugs
Don't you trade in a real drug store?

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Once more the hearts of Bear River Grange members are saddened by the loss of one of our dearly loved members, Sister Abbie Littlehale, who has answered the last Roll Call. Her work here is ended, she silently bowed to the will of the Great Creator, after years of devotion to her home and her loved one.

Sister Littlehale was an Honorary member of our Grange, and although she was unable to attend regularly, we were always glad when she was among our number. Our Grange will miss her cheery smile and Whereas, we deeply feel the loss of our loved sister, who was indeed a Mother to all her young friends, we realize our loss was only by the will of Him, who doeth all things well.

Therefore, Be it resolved that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to her family in their bereavement and that a page be spread upon our records, also that a copy be sent the Oxford County Citizen for publication.

"There are stars that go out in the darkness,
But whose silvery light shineth on.
There are roses whose perfume still lingers
When the blossoms are faded and gone.
There are hearts full of light and of sweetness
When no longer their life's current flows
Still their goodness lives on with the living
Like the souls of the stars and the rose."

AMERICAN LEGION
AUXILIARY
NEWS

GEORGE A. MUNDT UNIT, No. 81

The Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Maude Bean for their regular meeting Feb. 26. The quilt recently completed for the State Dept.
rehabilitation program was given to a local family.

Marjorie McAllister was appointed chairman for the Legion's Birthday Supper to be given Friday evening, March 14. Mildred Scarborough will be in charge of the program. The Legion and Auxiliary will have honorary guests for the occasion. The Sons of the Legion, Post, Auxiliary and families are cordially invited.

Members of the Auxiliary attending the West Bethel Americanism program under the direction of Mrs. Olive Lurvey were Mrs. Carrie French, Mrs. Maude Bean, Mrs.
Selma Chapman, Mrs. Lesta Compass, Mrs. Iola Forbes, Mrs. Frances Bennett, Mrs. Olive Head, Mrs.
Marjorie McAllister and Mrs. Adeline Dexter. Mrs. French, our Gold Star Mother, spoke on the behalf of the Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary served the Chamber of Commerce with a 6:30 supper at their rooms Tuesday, March 4.

Mrs. Adeline Dexter and Mrs.
Marie Naimy visited the Veterans'
Hospital at Togus Sunday. Comrade Mike Naimy is hospitalized at To-gus and was glad to hear from his many friends.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting, March 13, will be held with Mrs. Mary Moore.

JACKSON-SILVER UNIT, No. 68

The Auxiliary will receive blanks this week for their Emergency Volunteers Registration which should be completed by March 15.

The Post's Brigade Unit in West
Paris comes close to being the best in the State. These groups will come under the Legion's Disaster and Relief set-up. Over 70 took the floor to drill Thursday evening and the signers now total 91. This accomplishment alone shows much work on the part of the officers.

Post Commander Eddie Dorian has been reported very ill and County Commander A. R. Cummings has had to go away for a needed rest.

Next meeting is Friday evening, March 7. Let's all attend and make it a real get-together. There is always something new to interest the members.

NAPOLEON OUELLETTE UNIT

THE OXFORD COUNTY
UNITED PARISH NOTES

The Pilgrim Fellowship of the parish will meet in Council Saturday at the North Waterford parsonage to set the time and make plans for the March union service and union party; also the Lenten plans of the Fellowship.

Sunday the 9th the ministers of the parish will each give the second in their series of Lenten sermons.
Last Sunday a new service of worship was introduced in all the Churches. Instead of the regular four page service that has been issued each week an eight page calendar has been printed. This new service has two pages* of interchangeable prayers of confession and two pages of interchangeable congregational prayers thus providing variety with one order of service used over a period of time. The staff would appreciate your comments on this new service.

Tuesday the 11th is the night for the North Lovell School House service. These will end on Tuesday the 1st of April. On Wednesday the Lovell Y. A.'s meet. Also on Wednesday the members of the staff will join the other ministers of Oxford County in an all day Lenten Retreat.

The East Stoneham Circle Supper will meet Thursday evening the 13th. On Saturday evening the 15th the Center Lovell Church will gather for their Lenten Fellowship supper. Rev. Warren Palmer will be the speaker.

Instruction in this course is to provide for immediate intelligent care of the injured in an emergency.

Can you drive a car? Can you render practical nursing care? Can you operate a telephone switch board? These are some of the questions which members of Rufford Unit A. L. will be asked to answer when they register for voluntary emergency service March 15. Four general types of service are listed:
outside service, inside, home, and special service.

The Auxiliary's celebration plans for the Legion's birthday party
March 15 are nearly completed.

Miss Lovina Irish will have charge of the legislative activities in the local Auxiliary.

The next regular meeting will be held March 11. Following the business there will be a social hour and refreshments served in charge of Ruth Hopkins, Mrs. Marston, and Phillis Maillet.

GRAY'S SYRUP
RED SPRUCE GUM
This is the only cough syrup that is made from the bark of the red spruce tree. It is purely natural and is the best remedy for coughs, colds, and bronchitis. Do not wait for complications to develop—use Gray's at once to relieve your cough, soothe throat.

UPTON

Pvt. Alfred Richards of Fort Devens was home Sunday for the first time since he joined the army about four months ago.

T. A. Durkee is in Boston on business.

Miss Jean Milligan is working at "Ruth's Beauty Salon" in Dix-field.

Miss Sylvia Barnett is working in Dixfield.

Charlie Brown had a birthday party Monday evening this week.

The Misses Arline Judkins, Etta Barnett and Doris Williamson were home over the week end from Dix-field, returning Monday evening.

Miss Viola Barnett of Stephens
High School and Miss Sarah Casey of Mexico High were home over the week end returning Sunday P. M.
with Pat Evans of Rufford, who was a Sunday guest at William Barnett's.

There were four tables in play at the Grange Whist party held at the home of C. A. Judkins last Saturday evening. High scores were won by Richard Williamson and Miss Sally Rich while consolation prize went to Jennie Brown.

Elwin Brown and son Junior are working at Wilson's Mills for Clarence West.

Mrs. Ida Furber and daughter of Portland were guests of her sister, Mrs. Jennie Brown a few days last week.

Mrs. Kenneth Burnham and daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth of Hopedale, Mass., were in town two days last week, staying over night with Mrs. T. A. Durkee. They visited their summer camp, took pictures of the snow scenes and made a trip to Dixville Notch. Mrs. Burnham contributed about 50 books to the Library here.

Farm Bureau was held at the home of Mrs. Jennie Judkins last Friday.

The Older Young People met at the Ladies Aid Building with Miss Sylvia Barnett as hostess last week.

EVER READY 4-H CLUB

The Ever Ready 4-H Club of Hanover met March 1 at the home of Mrs. Morse. The meeting was opened with the Club pledge. The Secretary's and Treasurer's report was read and accepted. There were four present, six absent, and two visitors. The girls worked on their demonstration.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Una Stearns'.

meeting Tuesday, Feb. 25, with 15 members present. There were three visitors, Roderick McMillan, Elmer Bean and John Howe, all being chairmen of their units in the defense program. It is requested that all interested in this program attend our meetings to make this one of the best defense units in the state. This defense is formed for your protection, so kindly attend and see what the Legion is doing for the defense of your community.

It was voted to hold a whist party
the week of March 10 for purchase of Special Legion Police Badges. The Legion Special Police will consist of Bert Grover, Henry Bennett, Milo McAllister, Eugene
Van and John Compass.

The next regular meeting will be Tuesday, March 11. All defense chairmen please attend if possible.
There will be a card party at the Legion Rooms Wednesday evening, March 12. Refreshments will be served.

WEST PARIS

About 200 people attended Oxford Pomona Grange here Tuesday. There were five candidates, all from West Paris who took the Pomona or 5th degree. The program in the afternoon consisted of music by the High School orchestra which played several selections to open, after the speaker and at the close which was greatly appreciated. Their leader, Mrs. Shaw, directed them. The speaker was Rev Leonard Bickett of Lovell. His subject was Democracy, in which he clearly defined the difference between dictatorship and democracy, a very fine address. A forty minute play was put on by West Paris Grange entitled, "Pa's New House Keeper," in which there were some strange mix-ups full of humor. The cast of characters were:

Pa Hartley Ward
Mattie, Pa's daughter, Lee Dean
James, Pa's son, Raymond Farr, Jr.
Molly, Mattie's friend

Lucille Andrews
Jackson, James' college friend

Harold Andrews
Jean Pressey, a little seven year old girl was hit by a passing truck just as she got out of the school bus at her grandmother's home on the South Woodstock road last Friday night. She received a broken collar bone and cut head.

Harry Page has returned from Palm Beach Florida a month sooner than he intended on account of his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Cummings went to Portland Monday night to see their son, Howard in the National Guards about to go to camp in Florida.

Mrs. Thomas Verrill went to Portland Sunday to visit her husband who is a Lieutenant in the National Guards.

The High School drama will be held this Friday night at the Gym.

The Helping Hands Class, scheduled to be the first Friday of the month is postponed indefinitely.

Mrs. Esther Tower Anderson of Norway read "Dust of the Earth" and sang "Thy Will be Done" at the Sunday morning Lenten Service at the Universalist Church. Mrs. Anderson, always a favorite reader with West Paris people, was greeted by a good sized and appreciative audience.

The Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist Church, Miss Mary Jacobson leader, have extended an invitation to the young people of West Paris, North Paris, South Paris, Norway and Waterford larger parish to meet with them Sunday evening. A box luncheon will be enjoyed at 6 o'clock with the host Union serving hot cocoa, followed by a worship service and picture slides at 7:30 in the main auditorium to which the public is cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Inman entertained Sunday Mrs. Ella Whitney and daughter Phyllis, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Whitney and daughter Ann, all of Oxford.

West Paris High School will present the three act drama, "The Scarecrow Creeps," Friday evening March 7th, at the Gymnasium with following cast:

Adam Throgg, Gordon Verrill
Maudie Hobbs, Phyllis Flavin
Roderick Gage, Derwood Buck
Kenneth Gage, Stanton Lamb
Aunt Zinnle Washington, Lucille Aldrows

Trailing Arbutus (TA), Vernon Inman
Perry Gage, Roy Perham Jr.
Mrs. Annabelle Gage, Christine Moore

Norma Gage, Shirley Perham
The Baynes Bird Club will be postponed until March 12.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Odell C. Rich Jr. entertained a family dinner party Sunday in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Rich's brother, Lewis J. Mann. Guests present were Miss Edwina M. Mann, Stoneleigh College, Rye Beach, N. H.; Earle Palmer Jr., Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson, Miss Mary Anderson, Mrs. Julia Anderson, Biddeford; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Mann, Mrs. Esther Rich, Miss Eleanor Rich and Mrs. Generva Tuell.

A delicious dinner was served which included a decorated birthday cake made by Mrs. Esther Rich. A social afternoon followed, the guests from long distance leaving early for their return home. Mr. Mann received gifts.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Andrews and daughter Suzanna were week end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woods, at Malden, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Titus of So. Paris were Sunday visitors of her father, A. M. Andrews.

Mrs. Annie Davis entertained 12 members of the Willing Workers on Wednesday of last week. This was in the form of a poverty party. An old fashioned vegetable dinner was served at noon.

Ernest and Frank Packard of West Paris spent Saturday and Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Stanley Andrews.

Mrs. Albert Russ spent Tuesday with her cousin at South Paris.

Miss Dorothy Cleves and friend of Portland were guests of Miss Cleves' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews recently.

A. M. Andrews is poorly at this writing.

Guyson Davis returned to his teaching at Roxbury after a week's vacation.

MAGALLOWAY

The Stitch and Chatter Club met Wednesday P. M. with Mrs. Oscar Gould. They had nice refreshments and an enjoyable evening. The committee planned the supper for the Men's Club meeting March 6 at the Town Hall.

Miss Jean Cameron is spending this week at Woburn, Mass visiting her grandfather.

Rev. George Duke is going to Boston Wednesday afternoon to attend a conference there. He is spending the night with Rev. John Manton.

Arthur Henderson has been painting the school rooms. They say it is a great improvement.

Frank Cameron has gone to Richardson Lake for L. J. Thurston, driving tractor.

Monday afternoon is the meeting of Y. P. Club. Tuesday evening is Older Young Peoples meeting. Mrs. Lyman MacLean and Jean Cameron are refreshment committee.

Mrs. Warren Tucker is very ill with rheumatic fever at Berlin Clinic. Pythian Sisters and Stitch and Chatter Club have sent sunshine boxes to her.

Arch Bennett is having treatments at Berlin Clinic since his return from Hospital in Boston.

Miss Elva Linnell is home for a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ripley were home over the week end returning to Portsmouth Sunday.

His folks are up on Vitamin D. They know how vital it is to his health and the making of strong, straight bones. That's why they bought him a General Electric Sunlamp—an excellent way for him to get Vitamin D in abundance. The G-E Sunlamp is the largest-selling lamp of its kind in America. Doctors recommend it. Come in today. Get the whole amazing story—and a G-E Sunlamp for your baby.

ADD ONE CUP OF IMAGINATION

Once upon a time a friend told me that to her the addition of "one cup of imagination" was the most important ingredient that could be used in any recipe. So whole heartedly do I agree with her that today I want to give you a number of recipes to which that ingredient, imagination, has been added. In fact, so successfully has this been done that each of these recipes is different, yet each is delicious — each fairly shouts "Try me!"

These recipes, moreover, have been chosen as luncheon favorites because, of all of the meals of the day, the family luncheon some way seems to be most neglected.

Sausage Stand-Up.

(Serves 4 to 6)

- 1 8-ounce package spaghetti (broken small)
- 1 pound breakfast sausages
- ¾ cup minced onion
- 1 clove garlic (minced)
- 4 tablespoons parsley (finely chopped)
- 1 can tomato paste (6-ounce)
- 1 cup water
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¾ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- ¾ cup grated cheese

Cook broken spaghetti in boiling water (6 cups) (1 teaspoon salt per quart water) until tender, about 20 minutes, then drain. Place sausages in skillet, add ¼ cup of water and cook until nicely browned, about 15 minutes. Sauté onion, garlic, and parsley in sausage fat for 5 minutes, until onions are yellow and transparent. Remove from fat and combine with tomato paste and seasonings. Combine spaghetti with tomato sauce and turn into buttered casserole. Tuck sausages into spaghetti in upright position, so that just the end of each sausage shows. Sprinkle grated cheese over top and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 minutes.

Baked Apricot and Tapioca Pudding

(Serves 6 to 8)

- ½ cup pearl tapioca
- ½ cup evaporated apricots or 2 cups canned apricots
- ½ cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 3 cups warm water
- 1 tablespoon butter

Soak pearl tapioca in cold water, to cover, for one hour. Wash apricots and place in a well-greased 1½-quart heat-resistant glass casserole. Add sugar, salt, lemon juice and warm water. Drain tapioca; stir it into the fruit mixture in casserole and coat with bits of butter. Cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 1 hour or until the tapioca pearls are translucent. Cool, top with whipped cream, if desired, and serve with coffee sauce.

My Style Spaghetti.

(Serves 5 to 6)

- ½ cup olive oil
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 green pepper, seeded and chopped
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 cup tomato puree
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ cup grated cheese
- 1 cup canned corn
- ½ package spaghetti, cooked

Heat olive oil in frying pan and add onion, green pepper and ground beef. Fry until brown and then add the salt, tomato puree, and Worcestershire sauce. Stir in the grated cheese together with the corn and cooked spaghetti. Place in buttered baking casserole and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for approximately 40 minutes.

Coffee Sauce.

- ½ cup sugar
- 1½ tablespoons cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup hot coffee, regular strength
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, if desired.

Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt in the upper part of a 1-quart heat-resistant glass double boiler. Add coffee and cook until it thickens, stirring constantly. Blend in butter and nutmeg. Cool and serve with apricot and tapioca pudding.

Hot Dogs in Blankets.

When baking fresh yeast rolls, wrap strips of the dough around wieners, allowing the ends to stick out of their dough blanket. Give the dough time to double in bulk and bake as usual. These hot dogs in blankets should be served piping hot.

Honey All-Bran Spice Cookies.

(Makes 2½ dozen cookies)

- ¾ cup shortening
- ¾ cup honey
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 cup All-Bran
- 1½ cups flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup seedless raisins

Blend shortening, sugar and honey thoroughly. Add egg and beat until creamy. Add bran. Sift flour once before measuring. Add salt, baking powder, soda, cloves and cinnamon. Combine with raisins. Add to first mixture and beat well. Drop dough by teaspoons on lightly greased baking sheet about 2½ inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) about 12 to 15 minutes.

Mexican Spaghetti.

(Serves 8 to 10)

- ½ pound spaghetti
- 1 can peas (No. 2)
- ½ pound raw ham (ground)
- ½ pound American cheese (grated)
- 1 can tomatoes (No. 2)
- ½ cup green pepper (cut fine)
- 1 tablespoon pimiento (cut fine)
- 2 tablespoons butter (melted)
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper

Bacon strips
Cook the spaghetti in boiling, salted water. Drain. In a baking dish arrange layers of spaghetti, peas, ground ham and cheese and combine tomatoes, green pepper, pimiento, butter, and seasonings. Pour over the spaghetti. Cover with grated cheese and top with bacon strips. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for one hour.

Refrigerator Hamburgers.

(Serves 5)

- 1 pound hamburger
- 2 tablespoons finely minced onion
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 tablespoon horseradish

Mix all ingredients together, and shape into a roll 2½ inches in diameter. Let stand in the refrigerator several hours or over night. When ready to use, cut in slices ¾ inches thick and fry or broil as for regular hamburgers.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THIS bag was planned as a hospital gift for someone who was finding days in bed difficult enough without having books, magazines, writing materials and spectacle case scattered about and forever getting lost. If you like to take an assortment of reading matter to bed, sick or well, you will enjoy a bag like this. Its hanger hook may be sewed to box springs and there you are with everything at hand.

The bag shown here was made of a remnant of heavy cotton upholstery material in tones of green with a touch of red in the pattern. The red was repeated in the sateen lining. The sketch gives all the dimensions and shows how the lining and the outside part were made. A coat hanger was cut down to measure 12 inches from end to end and was placed between the lining and the outside; these being stitched together around the top, as illustrated.

NOTE: As a service to our readers Mrs. Spears has prepared a series of six booklets of her original ideas. Each booklet contains 32 home-making projects with illustrated directions. Booklets are numbered from 1 to 6, numbers 3 and 4 containing directions for other types of bags and door pockets that will make house-keeping easier. Booklets are 10c each and may be ordered direct from:

Both Congressmen

Congress consists of two branches — the senate and the house of representatives. Thus a member of either the house or the senate may be correctly called a "congressman," says Pathfinder. But in popular usage, "congressman," is generally applied to a member of the house, and "senator" to a member of the senate. A member of the house is officially and correctly called "representative."

Prayer is the believer's comfort and support, his weapon of defense, his light in darkness, his companionship in solitude, his fountain in the desert, his hope and his deliverance.—Van Dyke.

NAGGING BACKACHE

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, alcohol, keeps doctors busy. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and often times people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.

After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

CHAPTER XIX—Continued.

"All of which," Lyon began and coughed. I jerked. For an instant, I thought I heard in his voice a trace of that foreign speech that had come to me twice before. It was not there when he resumed.

"You overlook the fact that my sister has been cleared. One of the hallboys saw her come in just before—"

"He's downstairs now," Shannon said, "and he's confessed. He never saw her at all. He said he did it because he didn't want to get a lady into trouble. Your sister, Ione, killed that man, whether it's news to you or not. She then dropped the knife down the elevator shaft and screamed. Shall we get on up-town?"

This time he rose, but Lyon did not stir, and I saw the gloss of sweat on his leathery face.

"I see," he said with an ugly laugh. "A sort of social third degree, eh? By all means, Captain. Let's go uptown. I'd like to hear you tell that story in court."

Shannon's voice was more silky than I had thought it could be.

"Now, Mr. Ferriter," it purred, "I haven't been asking you. I've been telling you."

Miss Agatha spoke, so quietly that I wondered whether Lyon felt the edge of her words.

"I asked Captain Shannon to tell you what he knows, Mr. Ferriter. You were so considerate this morning that I believed you would rather be prepared, before—the arrest."

"There will be," he replied with an ugly defiance, "no arrest. No doubt Ione, if it were she, could explain her presence in the basement."

"She won't need to," Shannon said quietly, "because it has been proved. She went down there to get the knife that killed your visitor."

"Whose name," Cochrane said dreamily, "was—just possibly—Horstman, eh?"

Lyon could control his spare exterior. He could not manage his heart. Color came into his face.

"You see," Shannon pressed on. "Ione Ferriter dropped something in the basement that night."

He lifted the handkerchief from the knife upon the desk. The distant sound of traffic came into the still room. Lyon did not move, but ebbing color left his face a greenish gray.

Shannon said: "Her fingerprints are on the handle. There's blood on the blade," and after another long moment in which Lyon never stirred, added:

"We've got her, Ferriter. She killed him. As for her alibi—"

He picked up the telephone and said: "Hoyt? Come up here."

Down in the Morello, I heard the shaft door clang. The moan of the elevator blew through the room like rising wind.

Lyon said thickly: "Ione had nothing to do with it." He paused and then added: "I killed him."

The thrill it should have brought was oddly missing. I looked at Lyon with vague disappointment. It should have been more dramatic than that. Miss Agatha said:

"This is, of course, a rather belated but chivalrous attempt to save your sister . . ."

I had heard first over the telephone grow beneath his accustomed speech and at last dominated it.

"This is my confession. You can write it down, Captain. The man that I killed had done my daughter much wrong. I thought him dead."

He paused. Cochrane asked: "In a blizzard, in Alaska?"

That blind shot got Lyon, knocking his reserve away, breaking, for an instant, his self-control. He gaped at his mild questioner and struggled for speech. Jerry drove his attack home, still gently:

"With a bullet through his chest?" "Are you the devil?" Lyon blurted and the thick sound of his tortured voice seemed to shock him. He caught hold of himself, turned from Cochrane and said to Shannon, in his old easy manner:

"Do you mind very much if we don't go into that? I'd like to keep my daughter out of trouble. That is the purpose of my confession. She married my cousin, and hers, Lyon Ferriter, and went to Alaska."

"Lyon—" Shannon repeated, and gaped. The lean man frowned.

"If you please," he objected and went on. "She married Lyon Ferriter. He had been my partner in vaudeville. We are Bohemians by birth. I thought she would be happy. She was not. Ferriter abused her. I followed them to Alaska. All that she had written me was true and more. He was making her pose as his sister, with all that implied. Ferriter had got hold of the story of a lost gold strike, farther in. He and she and I went prospecting for it. We found it—and lost Ferriter."

I thought of the bullet scars on the dead man and held my peace. The slayer of Lyon Ferriter went on:

"I had gone there to take his wife, my daughter, away. He wore a beard and I grew one, that winter, after his death. We looked alike clean-shaven, and more so, bearded. We came back to the states—Lyon Ferriter and sister."

"My brother, a student but a weakling, had changed his name during the war. He was no longer Emil Horstman, but Everett Ferriter. Now, I was no longer Andreas Horstman but Lyon. I had enough for comfort. We were happy. I believed my daughter would make a good marriage when your nephew came of age."

He bowed precisely toward Miss Agatha as though he had complimented her, and pursued:

"Last Monday, my cousin, whom I thought dead, hailed me on the street. He had my arm before I saw him. There was nothing else to do. I brought him to my flat. There was no one in the hall and we walked upstairs. We talked a long while."

He paused and seemed to look back with critical eyes upon that interview. Shannon bent over his writing. I saw the quick rise and fall of Agatha's breath and the hawk look on her aunt's face.

"Lyon was greedy," Andreas Horstman said at last. "I offered him all the money. He wanted it—and Ione. She was still his wife. I ordered him out at last. He refused to go. Then I lost my temper. I called the police and he drew his knife and again I killed him. This time, permanently I think."

His face moved with a ghost of his whimsical smile. He shrugged and said:

"The rest you have found out—how I hid the knife in the basement and how Ione found her husband; how she went back to the cellar, to save her father—and got the knife only to drop it when Mr. Mallory came upon her; how she lost her head and went to his room; how Everett and I both bungled our last effort to find it and Everett killed himself because he feared death too much to live longer. Outside of trying to help the father she loves, my daughter had nothing to do with this—I tell you, not a thing."

Shannon started to speak but Cochrane's query forestalled him. "All right," he crooned, "you killed him. How did you get out afterward?"

For an instant, Lyon did not seem to understand. Then an odd expression crossed his face.

"Oh ho," he exclaimed softly, "Something is still a mystery, eh? You know so much, I thought you had read it all. It was simple. Let me show you."

He took a step backward and glanced about the room.

"Suppose the divan behind which Lyon's body lay was there."

Our eyes followed the pointing finger.

"The door," said Horstman, turning toward it with a smile, "would then be here."

He leaped. It slammed behind him. Like its echo, we heard the front door close.

I was quick but Shannon was quicker. He was at my elbow as I pulled the workroom portal open. He was past me and through the hall door before I reached it.

"Where?" he was barking at Hoyt, who stood in the open doorway of the waiting car. Eddie gabbled.

"Downstairs. On foot. He fell, I think. Shook the hull elevator. He—" "All!" Shannon roared down the shaft.

"Here," his aid replied from below.

"Stop him," shouted the Captain and plunged down the stairs. I jumped for the car.

"Basement," I muttered to Eddie, who jerked his lever. I was thinking too hard to hear his questions. The knife had been hidden in the basement. Somehow, the murderer had left it there, unperceived, before. He might be taking that mysterious route thither again.

Shannon beat us to the foyer. As we slid past its closed door, I could hear him yapping like a thwarted ferret.

"He came down. And I followed him. If you've let him get by, I'll—" I heard, once again, the voice—the real voice—of him we had known as Lyon Ferriter. It filled the shaft with a fearful sound, suddenly ended. The car lurched.

Silently Hoyt looked at me with a smirk of terror. Intent on the uproar in the foyer, shocked by the disembodied voice we both had heard, he had let the elevator down, without checking it, on the crossbeams that guarded the shaft pit.

"What was it?" he babbled. "Ja! hear that?"

Then I saw that the car rested unevenly on the beams as though something were pinned beneath one side and I knew what that last, abruptly stilled outcry had meant.

"He had done trapeze work," I told Miss Agatha. "When the elevator was at the floor above him, it was easy for him to open the shaft door below it and leap to the traveling cables. They're the power cables that are attached to the bottom of the car."

The old lady sat in her living room, cigarette in hand, highball beside her. She was personification of the quiet that spread after tempest. The useless ambulance that had tarried before the Morello had gone away. Shannon had left, with Cochrane. Allegra had vanished. I hoped that I, too, might depart before her return. Meanwhile, I gulped my drink and supplied, at Miss Agatha's insistence, those fragments of the tragedy that were not already hers.

"Apparently, then, with a thrust of his foot he shut the open door and went down unseen to the basement beneath the car, dropping into the elevator pit when the elevator halted at the foyer. Tonight, you see, it didn't stop. He jumped too late, or else he lost count of the floors and was pinned between the pit crossbeams and the car floor."

I drained my glass. Miss Agatha said:

"So that is why his hands were grimed the night after the murder and why he wore no overcoat?"

"Right," I answered. "The cables are greased, and dirty. Perhaps he threw his overcoat into the furnace. At any rate he wiped off

"He's downstairs now," Shannon said, "and he's confessed."

the knife and hid it in the basement, for fear someone would stop him when he went out into the street."

"Pride killed him," the old lady told me. "Let that be a warning to you, David. He had killed in self-defense. A lawyer no better than Tertius Groesbeck could have saved him. Lyon Ferriter had too much sense of drama."

"He'd been on the stage," I pointed out. "That's why he spoke so well, until he got excited, and then lapsed into his native tongue. It was just a veneer he had acquired."

"Odd, isn't it," Miss Agatha asked, "what you find when you pry off veneer—odd and terrible, David? I'll do no more prying. The Paget book will never be written. People that throw stones should live in intact glass houses."

"This is going to be brutal for Ione," I said.

"I sent Allegra to see her," Miss Agatha said briefly.

"That was generous," she shook her head.

"It's easy to be generous when you've won. Presumably she'll be financially secure, for she'll inherit Lyon's—I mean Horstman's—property. She'll never have Grove now. Grove will know how nearly he was trapped and how little she really cared. And I can't see him marrying a widow who had been a dance-hall hostess and was accessory to her husband's death. There's that thing I call noblesse oblige. You probably call it snobbery."

I grinned and rose, explaining that I was to meet Cochrane at the Press office at seven. I fumbled badly over my farewell, for I owed much to the woman who listened to my sounderings and offered me no aid.

"And tell," I stumbled, "your niece good-by for me, too."

Her sharp gray eyes dug into me. "I wonder," asked Miss Agatha, "if you think I'm the utter fool that I know you are, David Mallory. You talk as if we never were to meet again."

"That," I answered, "is exactly what I do mean." I had faced it for the last half-hour. Quarrels and rasped feelings seemed in the aftermath of tragedy, trivial things, but my purpose ran deeper than that. By every measurement one might employ, Allegra was out of my reach and the best tribute I could pay her was to leave her so.

The old lady had leaned forward in her effort to beat down my eyes.

"David," she said, "life doesn't begin at fourteen and stay there. What happened to the last person who went in pride out of this apartment should make you think a little. I'm fond of you, which is more than I admit to most people. Don't be a posturing idiot."

"Miss Agatha," I said and it was hard to speak clearly, after the odd tenderness I had heard in her voice, "I love your niece. That sounds old-fashioned."

"All the important things in the world are old-fashioned," she told me. "And that's why you want to make things as distressing as possible for everyone concerned? Because you love Allegra?"

What I knew was truth seemed trite when spoken under her steady regard. I went on:

"I've got a job. At about fifty a week. I can't offer that to a girl who has everything."

"My dear boy," said Miss Agatha and jerked her head, "match-making isn't among my sins. And besides I've never fixed Allegra's worth in dollars. Have you?"

"That's why," I went on fast because my throat was tightening, "I'm saying good-by. Probably this also sounds idiotic to you, but I love her too dearly to ask her to marry me."

"Rhetoric, rhetoric," said Miss Agatha and laid her hands on her chair's wheels. "I hope newspaper work sweats some of it out of you, David. Will you wait a minute?"

She propelled herself through that door which opened into her bedroom. I picked up my hat and coat and turned toward the hall, half minded to go.

Allegra stood there. I thought that, till now, I had not known how fair she was. She was a cool wind blowing through my mind, routing the rubbish of old wretchedness.

"Going?" she asked. Her eyes smiled.

"I am," I said. "Or—I mean, I was just saying to your aunt—" "Part of my mind screamed 'Idiot!' at me. None of it did anything else to help me. She came nearer."

"I heard you," she told me. "I've been standing here for five minutes. Let's not review that again; let's go on from there. Have you no better reason for not marrying me, David?"

Miss Agatha did not come back for a long while.

(THE END)

Maine Plans to Restock Their Fishing Streams

Seeking to maintain its claim to being the "fisherman's paradise," Maine has undertaken an intensive program to stock its streams and coastal waterways.

The fish and game department recently released 10,000 four-to-six-inch trout in the Cumberland county waters and now is seeking to increase the number of fighting Atlantic salmon in its streams.

Gov. Lewis O. Barrows ordered the departments of inland fisheries and game, and sea and shore fisheries, to undertake a joint survey of all known and potential salmon rivers to discover ways and means of bringing back the salmon in large numbers.

The governor also proposed that the U. S. bureau of fisheries convert their Craig Brook hatchery at Orono into an exclusive salmon plant, and Washington has sent a specialist to investigate the situation. The hatchery is working only with trout now.

It was suggested that legislation be enacted whereby the state could take over and destroy salmon weirs and reimburse the owners for their losses. The state, according to Barrows, already is prepared to make improvements in fishways, dams, and to clear streams.

STATE OF MAINE.
OXFORD ss. SUPERIOR COURT
IN EQUITY.
Widd B. Twaddle
vs.
Heirs of Dearborn L. Austin and Heirs of Robert A. Chapman and Assignees.

Widd B. Twaddle of Bethel, in the County of Oxford and State of Maine complains against the heirs of Dearborn L. Austin and his assignees and the heirs of Robert A. Chapman, formerly of said Bethel and his assignees and says:

1. He is the owner in fee simple of a certain lot or parcel of land situated and located in the town of Gilead in said County, bounded and described as follows:

It being about sixty acres of pasture land, or what was pasture land in said Gilead lying on the southerly side of the highway leading from the town of Bethel to said Gilead and westerly of road leading to the house now or formerly of George W. Mills in said Gilead and land of said George W. Mills and land now or formerly of Caleb Goodnow; bounded on the south by land now or formerly of Henry Goodnow, and on the west by land now or formerly of Lysander Ordway and Moses Mason and on the north by said highway. Being the same lot of land described in the second description in deed of Ralph W. Bean to John A. Twaddle dated October 14, 1913 and recorded in Oxford County Registry of Deeds Book 326 page 415, and by deed of Carlotta A. Green to John M. Bean by her warranty deed dated February 15, 1873, recorded in said Registry Book 167, Page 207.

The said John A. Twaddle was in possession of said lot from the time of said purchase in 1913 until his death January 23, 1918 and your complainant inherited said lot and has been in possession ever since.

2 The complainant desires to sell and dispose of said lot and has a purchaser for same, but examining the title finds there is an undischarged mortgage on record of said lot given by John M. Bean to Dearborn L. Austin, dated February 27, 1873 and recorded in said Registry Book 165, Page 562, and another mortgage given by Mary C. Bean, Widow of the said John M. Bean, to Robert A. Chapman, dated May 25, 1877, and recorded in said Registry Book 177, Page 342 with no discharge on record.

3 The said John M. Bean continued in possession of said premises until his death some time prior to 1877, and his Widow continued in possession under her own right and by purchase from the administrator of the estate of said John M. Bean by deed dated May 12, 1877 and recorded in said Registry Book 175, Page 446, until her death, since then the heirs of the said Mary C. Bean have been seized in fee of said premises until conveyed to the said John A. Twaddle.

4 Your complainant is familiar with the history of the parties involved in the aforementioned transactions and avers that both of said mortgages have been paid and discharged, but not of record.

5 Your complainant further says that the existence of said undischarged mortgages constitute a cloud on said title and seriously affects the market value of said lot.

6 Your complainant further says that said Robert A. Chapman and Dearborn L. Austin are deceased and their heirs are unknown to your complainant and cannot be ascertained by reasonable diligence.

Wherefore prays that said mortgages be discharged of record, and that complainant may have such further and other relief as the nature of the case may require.

And may it please this Honorable Court to issue its subpoena to the said heirs or their assignees, commanding them to appear before this Court and answer to this bill of complaint at the April Rules following and abide the orders of Court thereon.
